George Savage Promoted to Midwest Regional General Manager

Exton, Pennsylvania, March 22, 2004—TW Metals has announced the recent promotion of George Savage to the position of Midwest Regional General Manager replacing Jim Murray who left the company on February 5, 2004.

George Savage brings over twenty years of industry experience to his new position. TW Metals' CEO and President, Jack Elrod states, "George has been very successful in a number of general management assignments with TW Metals and we feel his leadership and professionalism will be a major factor in our continued growth and success in our Midwest markets, especially Chicago."

Savage started his career with TW Metals as an Inside Account Manager in the Houston office, moved into Outside Sales and was later promoted to Manager of Special Alloys. Previously, Savage was a Branch Manager in Freeport, TX and Phoenix, AZ. Most recently, he has been the Branch Manager of the Los Angeles facility. Savage is a graduate of Penn State University.

A dynamic and customer-focused organization, TW Metals is a leading specialty metal distributor with over 24 facilities worldwide. The company offers a broad range of products and services, including extrusions, fittings, pipe and tube. TW Metals was formed in 1998 through the merger of Tubesales (founded in 1946) and Williams and Company (founded in 1907). TW Metals is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Superior Group, Inc., a private holding company headquartered in Radnor, PA. For further information, visit www.twmetals.com.
